YANK BOMBERS HIT CENTRAL GERMANY

U. S. Stirred By Soviet-Badoglio Alliance

EXPLANATION IS TO BE SOUGHT BY WASHINGTON

Officials Perplexed By Aspects Of Moscow Recognition

PURPOSE IS NOT KNOWN

Clarification Of Sudden Diplomatic Action Will Be Asked

WASHINGTON, March 15—The United States government is understood today to be seeking an explanation from Moscow of the reason for Russia's sudden diplomatic recognition of the Badoglio government in Italy.

The decision to seek clarification of the Soviet move was reached at a conference between Secretary of State Cordell Hull and his advisers on European affairs.

Official Washington is considerably perplexed by several aspects of the Soviet government's action.

Purpose Unknown

In the first place, the purpose behind the Soviet move is unknown. Furthermore, the direct and unilateral method followed by Moscow in recognizing Marshal Pietro Badoglio's government has Washington puzzled and somewhat concerned.

Official Washington is at a loss to understand why the Soviet government did not bring the matter to the attention of the Allied Advisory Council on Italy. Neither the American or British government was consulted or informed in advance of Moscow's intention to extend diplomatic recognition to Badoglio's regime.

Under the terms of the armistice with Italy, United Nations' relations with the Badoglio government have been conducted through the Allied Military Control Commission. The Allied Council on Italy was intended as an advisory body to this commission.

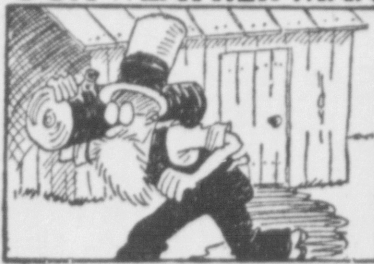

The chief reason for establishing the Advisory Council was to give Russia a voice in any matters affecting the political situation in Italy. The decision to establish the Advisory Council was reached at the Moscow conference. It was decided that the United States, Great Britain, Russia and the French National Liberation Committee should be represented on this council.

Bill To Simplify Tax Reports In Future Is Studied By Congress

WASHINGTON, March 15—In Washington, as elsewhere in the country, today is income tax day and late taxpayers who have been wrestling with the complicated returns are rushing to beat the midnight deadline for filing the forms.

This may be the last year that the tax returns read like a copy of Mairzy Doats in Latin. Representative Doughton (D) N. C., reports his house ways and means committee is making progress in its task of simplifying tax collections. Some 30 million persons may henceforth pay their full liability through withholding taxes and have the privilege of using a very brief return.

GRIPSHOLM DUE TO DOCK TODAY

Repatriate Ship Now Has Returned 3,500 North, South Americans

NEW YORK, March 15—When the Swedish ship Gripsholm docks today with 524 U. S. civilians, 103 nationals of other American republics and 35 U. S. army men, she will have returned approximately 3,500 North and South American repatriates from war-torn lands on three exchange excursions.

Her captain, Sigfrid Ericsson, brought over 908 others caught in Europe at the outbreak of the war, on the Drottningholm, in June 1942. The same year, he took over as master of the Gripsholm. Captain Ericsson has been knighted by King Gustav IV of Sweden, and is called "The Good Samaritan of the Seas."

Gripsholm hauled away Kichisaburo Nomura, Japanese ambassador to the United States, and the infamous "peace envoy," Saburo Kurosu, with 1,095 other Jap and Thailand undesirables in June 1942. It returned, from Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa, in August with 1,451 passengers, among them our ambassador to Japan, the outspoken Joseph C. Grew.

With the smaller passenger list of 662 this time, and the more careful planning of the Red Cross and other agencies involved, the landing procedure is expected to be less complicated.

An army of Red Cross workers was on the pier early, with more than 3,000 messages and letters to deliver to the repatriates. The organization previously had made tentative hotel reservations in New York for 25 and stood ready to provide emergency shelter and care for all who might need them.

DRAFT BOARD CLERK HELD

NEW YORK, March 15—Edward L. Ellinson, former chief clerk of Brooklyn draft board 231, was under arrest today on a charge of conspiring to sell selective service deferments. Ellinson, of the FBI charges, conspired with Ned Bogorad who was registered with board 231, to charge up to $300 for deferments.

Proposed Organization On United Nation Food Plan Object Of Attack

WASHINGTON, March 15—Assistant Secretary of State Dean Acheson is scheduled to outline to the senate foreign relations committee today a proposed constitution of the food and agricultural organization of the United Nations.

The report, adopted by the Allied Food Conference at Hot Springs, Va., last Spring, was drafted by an interim commission with membership from 44 nations.

As Acheson prepared to advise the committee on possible legislation to put the report into effect, Senator Harlan Bushfield (R) S. D., branded the program an administration attempt to "socialize" American agriculture.

Bushfield said the conference report on postwar rehabilitation envisages a continuation of drastic government controls over food production as a prerequisite to a U. S.-financed world food program.

The report, he added, seeks to establish an overall plan of international food requirements, diet needs and an increased standard of living under sponsorship of American taxpayers.

It also advocates an extension of medical, health and educational benefits to rural American communities under strict government regulations, he added.

JOSEPH EASTMAN, ODT HEAD, DIES IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, March 15—Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman, a veteran of more than 25 years government service, died at emergency hospital in Washington today of a heart attack. Eastman was 62 years of age.

One of the most popular and highly regarded federal officials, Eastman was taken to the hospital on February 19 for a rest and treatment of a heart ailment. His sudden death was a shock, however, to official Washington.

Eastman's death occurred only a few weeks after a dinner given in honor of his 25th anniversary on the interstate commerce commission. President Roosevelt only recently nominated him to another term on the ICC.

MINERS RETURN TO PITTS

MARTINS FERRY, O., March 15—Half of the 340 striking miners at the Rail and River Coal Company's No. 6 mine, west of Bellaire, returned to the pits today after a one-day layoff.

AUTO LIGHTS TO CAUSE ARRESTS IS POLICE TIP

Motorists operating cars without proper lights are heading for appearance in city court, Police Chief McCrady declared Wednesday.

"We are well aware of the fact that garages are overworked and that getting repair work done is difficult," he said, "but the time has come when the police must act in the interest of public safety. Excuses, however good, will not pay fines. Policemen will start making arrests at once."

The police chief reported an increasing number of complaints about improperly lighted automobiles and of near accidents as a consequence. "The time is not far away when someone will be killed on our streets as a result of improper lights," McCrady said.

The chief also called attention to the fact that many scooters now being operated in the city have no lights of any kind and that some of them are being operated without brakes. Parents of boys owning scooters should inspect their vehicles and prevent their operation unless the scooters have adequate safety devices, according to police.

BIRTH OF QUINTUPLETS IN ARGENTINA REVEALED

BUENOS AIRES, March 15—One of Argentina's best-kept secrets came to light today after a wealthy Argentine couple announced the birth of quintuplets and told of keeping the rare blessed event a secret for more than eight months to avoid publicity.

The parents—Franco Diligenti and his wife—said the babies were born the night of July 11, 1943, and that all were in good health, two of them already walking. The birth was kept secret, the father said, because the death of two of three triplets born to the couple three years ago was ascribed to excessive handling.

SOLDIERS VOTE BILL EXPECTED TO PASS HOUSE

Compromise Measure To Await Unknown Fate At White House

PASSES SENATE, 47 TO 31

Federal Ballot Would Be Provided If Act Is Approved

WASHINGTON, March 15—The house was expected to pass the compromise soldier vote bill today and send it to the White House to await an unknown fate at the hands of President Roosevelt.

Both Democratic and Republican house leaders conceded overwhelming adoption of the controversial bill, although Majority Leader McCormack said he, like Sen. Barkley (D) Ky., administration chief-in-the senate, will vote against it.

Rep. Worley (D) Tex., chairman of the house elections committee and backer of the federal ballot, predicted President Roosevelt will not veto the bill after its passage by the house.

"I do not think the President will veto it," Worley said. "I will ask for adoption of the measure because I think it is the best we could get under the circumstances."

Worley joined Rep. Rankin (D) Miss., chief advocate of the "states rights" ballot, and Minority Leader Martin in forecasting house passage. Rankin declared he was convinced the President will not veto the measure.

"The President won't veto," Rankin asserted. "He would have the original state ballot in his lap if he did."

The bill provides a federal ballot for members of the armed forces overseas, but it requires them to certify they first have applied for a state absentee ballot and have failed to receive it. A state certificate that the federal ballot is acceptable under state law also is provided.

The senate voted 47 to 31 in favor of the bill Tuesday in the face of freely made assertion by New Deal senators that President Roosevelt was virtually certain to veto the measure.

Commenting on the bill's prospects in the house, McCormack told newsmen: "I will vote against its adoption but I think it will pass."

Speaker Rayburn (D) Tex., however, said he had no comment to make.

Barkley told the senate he did not know whether President Roosevelt intended to veto the bill. "I have not discussed it with him," Barkley added.

WOULD RESTORE QUINTUPLETS TO DIONNE FAMILY

TORONTO, Ont., March 15—A bill was before the Ontario legislature today giving, in effect, the Dionne quintuplets back to their parents, thus returning the whole family to normal status.

The measure, introduced by Attorney General Leslie Blackwell, would remove the famous girls from the guardianship of Judge J. A. Valid and place them under the visible guardianship of their father, Oliva Dionne.

"After a protracted struggle," Blackwell said, "Mr. Dionne has all the children, not only the quintuplets, under one roof. They are all being brought up as an integrated family."

The courts, however, still would have jurisdiction over the quintuplets' contracts and financial resources.

EARLY RETURNS FAVOR WILLKIE

Pledged Candidates Have Lead In Vote Tabulations

CONCORD, N. H., March 15—A trend favoring Wendell Willkie was established today in the New Hampshire presidential primary on the basis of returns from 90 out of the state's 296 precincts which placed three Willkie men in the first six delegates.

Former Governor Robert O. Blood, unpledged but known to be favorable toward Willkie, was the leading candidate. Robert Burroughs, Republican national committeeman was second. Although unpledged, he too is known as a Willkie supporter.

Third was Frank Sulloway, Republican state treasurer, and in fourth place was Robert Upton, Republican state vice-chairman, unpledged, but favoring Willkie.

The only supporter of Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York was Arthur Watson, who was seventh.

BOMBER PILOT IS HOME AFTER 18 MONTHS' SERVICE

First Lieutenant C. Lloyd George arrived at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. George and family of near Atlanta Tuesday morning, after serving as a pilot on a Flying Fortress for more than 18 months. He was with the Eighth Air Force based in England.

Lt. George has returned for a 20-day furlough with his parents after completing a tour of missions. He was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and air medal with three oak leaf clusters.

Lt. George will be reassigned at the close of his furlough.

COMMUNITY LABOR TO BE USED IN CANNERIES

CLEVELAND, March 15—Some communities in the Ohio-Michigan-Kentucky region may be forced practically to suspend normal business during the height of the canning season to provide the necessary manpower for canneries, War Manpower Commission officials warned today.

The WMC said that such drastic steps would have to be taken only in towns where very severe labor shortages develop as the canneries reach their peak production period.

DAYLIGHT BLOW FOLLOWS NIGHT RAID BY R. A. F.

American Statement Fails To Specify Target Of Latest Sweep

DOGFIGHTS ARE REPORTED

Outlook For Nazis Grows Steadily Worse On Eastern Front

LONDON, March 15—Formations of American heavy bombers, operating in "medium" strength, assaulted military targets in central Germany by daylight today following a night in which the RAF and Luftwaffe traded blows across the English channel.

The official American statement did not specify the targets or give any further details of the newest blow against the Reich, although enemy sources hinted that the industrial city of Hanover may have been on the list of objectives.

DNE, the controlled Nazi propaganda agency, claimed that the daylight blow touched off a series of furious dogfights which raged over a vast area.

Hanover Again Hit

The German DNE agency declared that gigantic air battles raged over western and northwestern Germany with Nazi interceptors attempting to hamper the U. S. raiders along their line of flight. At one time, the Nazi transmitter said the action centered around the industrial city of Hanover, some 150 miles west of Berlin.

Shortly before the enemy reports, the air ministry revealed that swift Mosquito bombers hit at Dusseldorf in the bomb-battered Rhine valley. Twelve miles south of Essen, the city is the center of the German machine-industry and has important rail and water terminals. Not a single RAF raid was lost in the assault deep into the Reich.

On the Anzio beachhead front in Italy, British forces of the Fifth Army struck in considerable force against Nazi positions outside of Carroceto in a "testing" thrust interpreted as possibly preparatory to resumption of intensified fighting. Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson's headquarters announced the drive took new ground, which the Tommies now are consolidating.

On other front, German thrusts were stopped as Axis and Allied patrols probed each other's positions.

On the eastern front, the outlook for German troops in the southern Ukraine grew steadily worse. Even Colonel Kurt Dittmar, military commentator for the Berlin radio, admitted the seriousness of the situation, saying the "crisis has come" with the Soviet breakthroughs that have swept relentlessly westward.

DOUGHBOYS HELP LONDON FIREMEN AFTER HUN VISIT

LONDON, March 15—Hundreds of American doughboys, in Britain for their final training, lent a welcome helping hand to firefighters in London and its outlying areas early today, successfully extinguishing blazes started last night by the Luftwaffe in its strongest attack in recent months.

Infantrymen, air corps specialists and troops of many branches of the American army fought the fires and dug out men, women and children from heaps of rubble in which they were buried by the Nazi bombs. Although the German pilots loosed thousands of incendiary packets on the London area in an attempt to set fire to large districts, authoritative sources declared today that the assault was completely unsuccessful.

FARMERS PLAN REPLY

MILLERSBURG, O., March 15—Holmes county farmers who have found themselves embattled as the result of a magazine article depicting the slaying of foxes with clubs today prepared replies to the storm of criticism coming from individuals and groups throughout the country.

CORNELL LEADS

ITHACA, N. Y.—Cornell leads the nation's colleges and universities in the number of U. S. military personnel assigned there. As of last October, Cornell had 3,399 members of the armed forces in attendance, followed closely by the University of California, with 3,354 on two campuses at Berkeley and Los Angeles. Yale was third with 2,897.

TRAINED TO SWIM

LONDON — American troops taking part in the invasion of occupied Europe will be able to swim ashore and carry their equipment with them. Courses in water safety and swimming are being taken by large groups of officers and men. Instruction is being given in London and eight other centers. Selected graduates help to train other men at their own stations.

LIBERTY SHIP SURVIVES THREE-WEEK FIRE

THE BUCKLED DECKS of the Liberty ship J. Pinckney Henderson testify to the searing heat generated below decks when its highly inflammable cargo of magnesium, wax and oil ignited after a North Atlantic collision with a tanker. Only three of the 72 seamen on the Liberty ship survived, while six from the tanker were saved. Despite fire which lasted three weeks, the ship was towed to New York Harbor. (International)

lessly toward the Romanian border and deep into old Poland.

Three Ukrainian armies, along a 500-mile front from Tarnopol inside the pre-1939 Polish frontier to the north of the Dnieper river, overran upwards of 220 towns and villages and inflicted "enormous losses in manpower and equipment upon badly-battered Nazi forces.

Greatest single catastrophe reported in recent days that contained in the latest Soviet communiqué, dealing with the Red army drive toward Nikolayev, and eventually toward the vital enemy stronghold of Odessa.

North of captured Kherson, Marshall Rodion Y. Malinovsky's force snapped a giant pincer about "several" German divisions and went systematically about the task of eliminating them. At least 10,000 enemy troops were killed in the battle's initial phases and 4,000 others captured. The fight to exterminate the Nazis appeared to be continuing.

Malinovsky's men continued their advance toward the German naval base of Nikolayev, driving one spearhead of a growing pincer to within 20 miles of the city's southeastern outskirts.

Another Russian column moved to the north bank of the mouth of the Dnieper river, reaching a point within 80 miles of Odessa. Reports from neutral quarters said the Germans were preparing to evacuate Odessa and the Crimea by sea, but British sources denied that a Nazi "Dunkirk" was already in progress.

New Landing in Pacific
And, in the southwest Pacific, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's American forces on New Britain made a new landing in the Talasea area. The action was believed intended to reinforce those Yanks who last week cut off the Willaumez peninsula, 165 miles from bomb-battered Rabaul.

MacArthur's fliers again hit Rabaul, this time with 121 tons of bombs, and raided the Wewak area of New Guinea. In a 72-hour series of assaults on the latter base, the Allied airmen knocked out of action 65 badly-needed enemy planes and started fires and explosions among airdrome and supply installations.

In the central Pacific, the U. S. air forces continued hammering Jap-held islands, encountering the first fighter opposition in some time when raiding Ponape in the Carolines.

EXPLANATION IS TO BE SOUGHT BY WASHINGTON

Officials Perplexed By Aspects Of Moscow Recognition

Russian Move Questioned
The state department now wonders whether Russia has decided to walk out on the Advisory Council, Moscow recently called home its representative on that council, Vice Foreign Commissar Andrei Y. Vishinsky. However, it was explained at the time that Vishinsky was needed for more important work in Moscow and that Russia would still be represented on the council by another Soviet envoy.

The view prevailed generally in authoritative American circles that a move as important as the diplomatic recognition of Badoglio's government should have been brought to the attention of the Allied military Control Commission in Italy before being taken.

Official Washington remained highly amused by one aspect of the situation. That is the confusion which Moscow's move appears to have created in those left-wing circles which have been assailing the American and British governments for allegedly giving too much support to Badoglio's regime.

"Highland Mary," the poem by Robert Burns, celebrated his affection for Mary Campbell, a nursemaid in the family of Gavin Hamilton and daughter of a sailor. She died shortly after their betrothal.

FAVORITES OUT OF 'B' TOURNEY

Basketball Title Race Most Unpredictable In Many Years

COLUMBUS, March 15—With-out a single undefeated team still in the race, Ohio's Class B high school basketball title quest stacks up as the most unpredictable event in recent years.

The teams with the perfect records—the ones that were expected to go a long ways in the race—dropped from the running during last week's district tourneys, leaving 16 clubs which lost anywhere from one to eight games during the pre-tournament season.

In all probability there isn't a real honest-to-goodness favorite in the current scramble, at least not one which was strongly favored from the start of the tourney season a month ago. Veteran tourney observers have installed teams like Tip City, Philo, Worthington, Grove City, to mention a few, as the "favorites" but the real ones were knocked out of the race last week.

At this point in the playoffs Tipp City and Philo are probably the strongest supported clubs. On the strength of scintillating performances in district events last week, the two clubs gained considerable prestige as state tournament possibilities.

LAURELVILLE

The United Brethren Missionary Society held its March meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Maude Devault with six members present. New officers for the year are: president, Mrs. Denny Drumm; vice president, Mrs. Will Harmon; secretary, Mrs. Pearl Strous and treasurer, Mrs. Maude Devault.

Mrs. Ida Defenbaugh discussed the topic "For the Facing of the Hour." Mrs. Maude Devault was appointed to attend the convention in Columbus in April. Prayer by Mrs. Denny Drumm closed the session.

The United Brethren Aid Society met Thursday evening, at the home of Mrs. Will Harmon. Members read the first chapter of Matthew and each discussed a verse. Prayer by Mrs. Maude Devault. Refreshments were served to eight members.

After the Pythian Sister lodge Wednesday evening the members were entertained by Miss Moselle and Miss Bernice Taylor and Mrs. Winford Dumm. Eight members were present.

Mrs. Jean Shupe was the Sunday guest of her sister, Mrs. Ferd Dumm, of Logan.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rose and daughter, Laura Louise, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McCollister of Amanda.

Those from Laurelville attending the W. S. C. S. group meeting at Ashville Thursday were Mrs. Thomas Hockman, Mrs. Grace Pierce, Miss Moselle Taylor and Mrs. Ray Poling.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester McDaniels and son, Larry, of Athens were Sunday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Jinks.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Rhodes and Mrs. Blanch Duden of Columbus were Sunday guests of Mrs. Maude Devault.

'YOU ARE MY SUNSHINE'

PITTSBURGH—Sgt. Edgar Moore, of Pittsburgh, wrote home that he and his buddies spent a "most enjoyable Christmas" with 80 Sicilian war orphans. The Yanks gave the youngsters ice cream for which the children sang "You Are My Sunshine."

It takes 23 railway tanks cars of heavy fuel to supply one destroyer for a round trip from the east coast of the United States to Africa.

NEW GAS RATION CUT WILL FORCE CARS OFF ROADS

More and more automobile owners having only an A card will be forced to use other means of travel after March 21 when the new cut in rations becomes effective.

The previous cut several months ago made an appreciable difference in traffic and the new ruling no doubt will remove other machines from the streets and highways.

The new cut is expected to result in an increased number of applications for B cards but local rationing officials said the chances for approval are slight.

The "A" card gasoline ration was lowered to two gallons a week for the entire country, effective March 22, because of imminent "critical demands" and a gigantic black market which is draining 2,500,000 gallons daily from the restricted civilian supply.

The action means a one-third cut in basic family car rations for all parts of the country except the eastern seaboard where the "A" ration already is two gallons weekly.

Accompanying the order was another tightening of restrictions on issuance of "B" coupons in five states of the Pacific coast area so that holders of "B" books cannot get additional coupons to offset the lowered value of "A" coupons.

WILL CASE APRIL 3

A hearing of the suit contesting the will of the late Charles Weidlich is to be heard in Common Pleas court starting Monday, April 3 instead of the coming Monday. Nieces and nephews who are seeking to break the will name George J. Hitler and others as defendants.

SERVICES FOR BOMBER VICTIM ARE INCOMPLETE

Corporal Noel F. Christian, who was one of three soldiers fatally injured Monday in the light bomber crash near Florence, La., was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Christian State Route 188, just west of Cedar Hill. His mother was Irene Gibson of the Williamsport community before her marriage. The family, although living in Fairfield county, was from the Walnut school district and is widely known in that community.

Corporal Christian leaves in addition to his parents, three sisters, Mrs. Katherine McKenzie of Lancaster Route 3 and Dorothy and Donna of the home, and one brother, Warren, also of the home.

Funeral arrangements in charge of the Defenbaugh funeral home are incomplete pending arrival of the body from Louisiana. It is planned to have the services in charge of the Rev. Martin Mickey and interment will be in Reber Hill cemetery.

NO SMOKING!

HARTISBURG, Pa. — Gov. Edward Martin's new private conference room has just about every convenience for the comfort of cabinet members except ash trays. An unwritten "no smoking" rule is observed in deference to the governor, who suffers a slight discomfort from smoke since he was gassed in France 26 years ago.

LIBERTY SHIP SURVIVES THREE-WEEK FIRE

THE BUCKLED DECKS of the Liberty ship J. Pinckney Henderson testify to the searing heat generated below decks when its highly inflammable cargo of magnesium, wax and oil ignited after a North Atlantic collision with a tanker. Only three of the 72 seamen on the Liberty ship survived, while six from the tanker were saved. Despite fire which lasted three weeks, the ship was towed to New York Harbor. (International)

lessly toward the Romanian border and deep into old Poland.

Three Ukrainian armies, along a 300-mile front from Tarnopol inside the pre-1939 Polish frontier to the north of the Dnieper river, overran upwards of 220 towns and villages and inflicted "enormous losses in manpower and equipment upon badly-battered Nazi forces."

Greatest single catastrophe reported in recent days was that contained in the latest Soviet communiqué, dealing with the Red army drive toward Nikolayev—and eventually toward the vital enemy stronghold of Odessa.

North of captured Kherson, Marshall Rodion Y. Malinovsky's force snapped a giant pincers about "several" German divisions and went systematically about the task of eliminating them. At least 10,000 enemy troops were killed in the battle's initial phases and 4,000 others captured. The fight to exterminate the Nazis appeared to be continuing.

Malinovsky's men continued their advance toward the German naval base of Nikolayev, driving one spearhead of a growing pincers to within 20 miles of the city's southeastern outskirts.

Another Russian column moved to the north bank of the mouth of the Dnieper river, reaching a point within 80 miles of Odessa. Reports from neutral quarters said the Germans were preparing to evacuate Odessa and the Crimea by sea, but British sources denied that a Nazi "Dunkirk" was already in progress.

New Landing in Pacific And, in the southwest Pacific, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's American forces on New Britain made a new landing in the Talasea area. The action was believed intended to reinforce those Yanks who last week cut off the Wilemex peninsula, 165 miles from bomb-battered Rabaul.

MacArthur's fliers again hit Rabaul, this time with 121 tons of bombs, and raided the Wewak area of New Guinea. In a 72-hour series of assaults on the latter base, the Allied airmen knocked out of action 65 badly-needed enemy planes and started fires and explosions among airbase and supply installations.

In the central Pacific, the U. S. air forces continued hammering Jap-held islands, encountering the first fighter opposition in some time when raiding Ponape in the Carolines.

EXPLANATION IS TO BE SOUGHT BY WASHINGTON

Officials Perplexed By Aspects Of Moscow Recognition

Badoglio government is the very type of problem which Washington thought would be handled by the Advisory Council before action was taken by any one of the Allied powers concerned.

Russian Move Questioned The state department now wonders whether Russia has decided to walk out on the Advisory Council. Moscow recently called home its representative on that council, Vice Foreign Commissar Andrei Y. Vishinsky. However, it was explained at the time that Vishinsky was needed for more important work in Moscow and that Russia would still be represented on the council by another Soviet envoy.

The view prevailed generally in authoritative American circles that a move as important as Badoglio's government should have been brought to the attention of the Allied military Control Commission in Italy before being taken.

Official Washington remained highly amused by one aspect of the situation. That is the confusion which Moscow's move appears to have created in those left-wing circles which have been assailing the American and British governments for allegedly giving too much support to Badoglio's regime.

"Highland Mary," the poem by Robert Burns, celebrated his affection for Mary Campbell, a nursemaid in the family of Gavin Hamilton and daughter of a sailor. She died shortly after their betrothal.

FAVORITES OUT OF 'B' TOURNAMENT

Basketball Title Race Most Unpredictable In Many Years

COLUMBUS, March 15—Without a single undefeated team still in the race, Ohio's Class B high school basketball title quest stacks up as the most unpredictable event in recent years.

The teams with the perfect records—the ones that were expected to go a long ways in the race—dropped from the running during last week's district tourneys, leaving 16 clubs which lost anywhere from one to eight games during the pre-tournament season.

In all probability there isn't a real honest-to-goodness favorite in the current scramble, at least not one which was strongly favored from the start of the tourney season a month ago. Veteran tourney observers have installed teams like Tip City, Philo, Worthington, Grove City, to mention a few, as the "favorites" but the real ones were knocked out of the race last week.

At this point in the playoffs Tipp City and Philo are probably the strongest supported clubs. On the strength of scintillating performances in district events last week, the two clubs gained considerable prestige as state tournament possibilities.

LAURELVILLE

The United Brethren Missionary Society held its March meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Maude Devault with six members present. New officers for the year are: president, Mrs. Denny Drumm; vice president, Mrs. Will Harmon; secretary, Mrs. Pearl Strous and treasurer, Ms. Maude Devault.

Mrs. Ida Defenbaugh discussed the topic "For the Facing of the Hour." Mrs. Maude Devault was appointed to attend the convention in Columbus in April. Prayer by Mrs. Denny Drumm closed the session.

The United Brethren Aid Society met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Will Harmon. Members read the first chapter of Matthew and each discussed a verse. Prayer by Mrs. Maude Devault. Refreshments were served to eight members.

After the Pythian Sister Lodge Wednesday evening the members were entertained by Miss Moselle and Miss Bernice Taylor and Mrs. Winfred Dumm. Eight members were present.

Mrs. Jean Shupe was the Sunday guest of her sister, Mrs. Ferd Dumm, of Logan.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rose and daughter, Laura Louise, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McColister of Amanda.

Those from Laurelville attending the W. S. C. S. group meeting at Ashville Thursday were Mrs. Thomas Hockman, Mrs. Grace Pierce, Miss Moselle Taylor and Mrs. Ray Poling.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester McDaniels and son, Larry, of Athens were Sunday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Jinks.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Rhodes and Mrs. Blanch Duden of Columbus were Sunday guests of Mrs. Maude Devault.

MOST CITIES TO CHANGE TO FAST TIME IN APRIL

Circleville Councilmen To Consider Ordinance At Session Tonight

APPROVAL IS EXPECTED

Sponsors Hope For Passage Under Emergency Clause At Single Meeting

Most Ohio cities will change their clocks to fast or Eastern War Time during April. In Circleville, the question will not be determined until tonight when City Council takes up consideration of an ordinance intended to return the city to fast time for the summer months.

The local ordinance will be submitted as an emergency measure, and it probably will be approved at a single meeting instead of the usual procedure of three successive readings.

Washington C. H. is still undecided about its time after the first of April, but Hillsboro, Greenfield and Lynchburg all will change their clocks at midnight on March 31.

The Ohio State Council of Retail Merchants has announced the results of a survey showing most Ohio cities will step up to fast time by May 1.

Already switched from Eastern Standard Time to fast time are Mansfield, on February 20, and Shelby, on February 26.

Scheduled to change April 1 are Mt. Vernon, Nelsonville, Painesville, Portsmouth, Toledo and Zanesville.

To change April 2 are Bellefontaine, Columbus, Fremont, London and Springfield.

April 15: Lisbon.

April 18: Akron, Alliance, Barberton, Cleveland, East Palestine, Kent, Lakewood, Lorain, Salem, Sandusky, Van Wert, Warren and Youngstown.

Cincinnati is also expected to change "some time in April."

Washington C. H. and Hamilton are undecided.

Ashtabula, Bellare, Conneaut, East Liverpool, Ironton, Martins Ferry, Steubenville and Willard are on Eastern War Time the year around.

Communities planning no change from Eastern Standard Time are Bryan, Wauseon, Urbana and Dayton, where city commissioners decided to bide by "slow time."

Other cities expected to change, but which have set no date, are Canton, Huron, Massillon, Middletown and St. Marys.

Saltcreek Valley

The Methodist Aid was entertained last Wednesday afternoon in the social parlors of the church. The following committee served nice refreshments to a large crowd: Mrs. Daisy Judy, Mrs. Bertha Foust and Mrs. Hazel Fogle.

Saltcreek Valley—Mrs. Elsie Murielle and son, Larry, of Stoutsville entertained the following at dinner last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Hinton, daughter, Miriam, and Mr. and Mrs. Noah Walliser, son Donald.

Saltcreek Valley—Charles Wolfe of Lancaster was visiting relatives in Tarlton last Sunday.

Saltcreek Valley—Mr. and Mrs. Russell Jones and family entertained at a nice dinner the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jones of Pleasant View; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones, son Charles, and Mrs. Jennie Strous and son, Pearl.

Saltcreek Valley—The teachers and parents of the Saltcreek basketball team gave a supper and party Saturday evening at the school house in their honor. There were about 50 present. They awarded the team letters and medals. A nice program was enjoyed.

Saltcreek Valley—Mrs. Richard Ballard and Mrs. H. E. Balthaser entertained last Saturday evening at the home of the former in honor of the birthday anniversaries of Miss Roanne Kettman and Franklin Ballard. The following invited guests were present: Nelson and Louise Jones, Francis Fraunfelder and Lloyd Spung. Delicious refreshments were served.

The music composer, Mozart, was very fond of billiards. He played continually with his wife, and when she was too tired, he called in a friend to play with him.

ASHVILLE

The Ashville Community Club will hold its annual election of officers Monday, March 27, at 8:00 p. m. Following the business meeting, Ralph W. Jordan, director of the Central Hospital Service, will discuss the "Blue Cross" hospitalization program in Pickaway county. The program committee has also made arrangements for the showing of some interesting films. All members are urged to attend and bring guests.

Ashville—The Ashville-Lockbourne Brotherhood will meet Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the Ashville Lutheran church. Will W. Fischer is chairman of the entertainment committee.

Ashville—Claude Kraft, Charles W. Fortner, Scott Scottorn, and Ed Irwin attended the meeting of Philo lodge, K. of P. in Circleville Monday evening.

Ashville—The Ashville inter-class tournament got under way Tuesday afternoon with the following results: Senior girls, 35; Fresh girls, 18; Sophomore boys, 18; Senior boys, 16; Sophomore girls, 21; Junior girls, 19; 7th and 8th boys, 18; Junior boys, 14. Play will be resumed Thursday evening with a game between the Senior boys and the Junior boys with the winner playing in the consolation game Friday; Junior girls vs. Fresh girls; and the Fresh girls vs. the Sophomore boys. The finals for both boys and girls and the boys' consolation game will be played Friday evening. A small admission charge will be made for the Thursday and Friday games, with the proceeds given to the Red Cross. Come out and enjoy some spirited games and also help a worthy cause.

Ashville—Capt. and Mrs. Julius Kaiserman and son, David, enjoyed a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kaiserman. Capt. Kaiserman left for Washington, D. C. Wednesday where he will receive a new assignment.

Ashville—It is reported that some local people are in the market for a secret auto compartment in which a set of spare keys can be carried safely. Such a device would have enabled some local people to get home at a much earlier hour after the district finals at Westernville last week.

Ashville—A meeting will be held in the Ashville school building Wednesday evening at 8:00 to discuss plans for securing an alfalfa dehydrator and to hear a report of a committee of 10 farmers who went to Van Wert Monday to see one of these machines in operation. All farmers interested in this project are invited to attend the meeting.

Ashville—The teachers and parents of the Saltcreek basketball team gave a supper and party Saturday evening at the school house in their honor. There were about 50 present. They awarded the team letters and medals. A nice program was enjoyed.

NEWS OF OUR MEN and WOMEN IN UNIFORM

Mr. and Mrs. John Fyffe of Circleville, Route 1, who recently removed to this locality from Louisville, Ky., have a son, Corporal Ed Fyffe, who is serving on the Italian front with a Field Artillery unit. In a letter dated February 16 received by his aunt, Mrs. W. A. Fyffe of Louisville he says: "I'm back on the front lines again, but so far I'm O. K. Sure have seen a lot of excitement. Plenty of American planes overhead and a few Germans, and some shot down. I've had several close calls, mostly from artillery shells, and boy it's no fun having them burst all around you, and at night just a steady riddle of rifle fire. All of which makes a fellow have a funny feeling. We have several tanks with us and they sure can put up a battle. So tell all the people to buy all the war bonds they can for we are using plenty of ammunition. All the soldiers are buying bonds. As for me, I've bought close to a thousand dollars worth since I came overseas."

U. S. Cooking, English Style
Since the Army still adheres to its traditional mode of traveling, mess matters are of primary anatomical interest. Anxious to cater to the officers' appetites at United States Army headquarters in London, British cooks cooked up what they thought were American dishes. The bill of fare included cream of peanut butter soup, canned corn with syrup and macaroni salad.

March 20 will be the birthday anniversary of Private David L. Yates, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Adrian Yates of East Main street. Greetings should be addressed: 35298762, 14th Co. Bn. 5, Rec. O.S.T.P., B.F.C., Fort Benning, Ga.

Emmitt F. Morgan, seaman second class, has been assigned recently to Service School at San Diego, California. There he will be given technical radio training as a Radarman.

Private Arthur M. Wilkin has sent as his new address, ASN 35226389, Co. H Group 8, 3rd Reg. T1929, Camp Reynolds, Greenville, Ga.

Private E. C. Robinson, who has been at Daniel Field, Ga., has sent his sister, Miss Dorothy Robinson, of West Franklin street his new address. He is now stationed at Tinker Field, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, with Hq-Hq Sqdn. O.C.A.S.C. His Army Serial Number is 35624654.

A Slight Error
Someone really needed to wake up the bugler at Gowen Field, Ida., when he pursued his lips at 11 p. m. for taps, blew the wrong call, and sent about 5,000 men to muster for mess.

Private Edgar N. May will have a birthday March 21 and greetings would be appreciated. His address is: Pvt. Edgar N. May, Co. E, 83rd Medical Bn. armd. 13th armored Division, A. P. O. 268, Camp Bowie, Texas. U. S. Army 35615538.

Sergeant Robert Trone's new address is: Nichols General hospital, Louisville, Ky. He was serving in the South Pacific theatre and he has been returned to the United States for medical treatment. Sgt. Trone is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Trone of Columbus, formerly of Ashville.

BID INCREASED FOR PLANT OF OHIO-MIDLAND

South Central Co-Operative And Two Other Companies Seek Property

ANOTHER OFFER DENIED

Previous Purchase Plan Is Unacceptable To Commission

South Central Rural Electric Co-operative, a tri-county Rural Electrification Administration company, with two other Ohio rural co-operatives, have entered a bid of $2,010,000 for the Ohio-Midland Light and Power Company. A previous proposed sale of the property to Joseph B. Wilson of Chicago was cancelled recently by a ruling of the Securities and Exchange Commission. Wilson's bid was $1,885,000.

South Central, one of the largest rural electric co-operatives in the state, now services a total of 3650 rural consumers over 1090 miles of line largely in Pickaway, Fairfield and Perry counties, with extensions running into other adjoining territories. All current is purchased from the Midland firm.

The Federal Commission refused to exempt the transaction from competitive bidding requirements of the holding company act. Testimony disclosed that at least 11 offers had been made for the Ohio-Midland properties between 1939 and last June 1, when the contract with Wilson was made, the commission's opinion said.

Following complaints of intraventions, including South Central the commission recommended that the Associated Electric company, owner of Ohio-Midland, in their advertisement for bids state that the Ohio-Midland securities are not offered for the purpose of public distribution and that no bid will be accepted unless it includes satisfactory assurance that the securities will not be resold to the public.

South Central Rural Electric, Lancaster Inter-County Rural Electric at Hillsboro and Union Rural Electric, Marysville, were the three co-operatives bidding for the Ohio-Midland.

An allocation of $2,237,000 was recently made available by REA at Washington to South Central Rural Electric for acquisition of Amazing Way for "RUN-DOWN" people to get NEW VITALITY..PEP!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach
2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

THESE two important steps may help you to overcome the discomforts of embarrassment of sour stomach, jerky nerves, loss of appetite, underweight, digestive complaints, weakness, poor complexion!

A person who is operating on only a 70 to 75% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped. So with ample stomach digestive juices PLUS RICH, RED-BLOOD you should enjoy that sense of well-being which denotes physical fitness... mental alertness!

If you are subject to poor digestion or suspect deficient red-blood as the cause of your trouble, yet have no organic complication or focal infection, SSS Tonic may be just what you need as it is especially designed (1) to promote the flow of VITAL DIGESTIVE JUICES in the stomach and (2) to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient.

TAXPAYERS WARNED TO WEIGH ENVELOPES

Many persons mailing their income tax returns to the Collector of Internal Revenue in Columbus are failing to place the required number of postage stamps on the envelopes.

A. Hulse Hays, postmaster, today urged that all letters be weighed before mailing and a sufficient number of stamps attached so as to avoid mailing troubles later.

CONSIDER HISTORY BILL

NEW YORK—A bill before the New York State Legislature would make the teaching of American history compulsory in all elementary schools. The measure would prohibit graduation of pupils in any way "deficient" in the courses.

The Ohio-Midland property and for construction of 850 additional miles of line in the co-operative's territory, Darwin Kinder, manager said.

NEW ODT RULINGS FOR TRUCKERS EFFECTIVE SOON

Effective March 27, over-the-road truck operators will be required to register freight and empty or partially-loaded vehicles with the Columbus Office of Defense Transportation district office.

The order is designed to assist over-the-road operators in utilizing their equipment to the fullest extent. A. F. Dankert, district ODT manager, said.

To conform to the new registration plan, the ODT announced a revision of the loading requirements of the over-the-road carriers and revocation of General Order ODT 13, which authorized the establishment of Joint Information offices. These actions will also be effective March 27.

The new registration procedure was adopted after consultation with motor carriers and labor representatives.

HEALTH QUIZ

Do you have poor digestion? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you feel headachy after eating? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you get sour or upset easily? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you feel tired—listless? ☐ YES ☐ NO

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails—your food may remain undigested—lie sour and heavy in your digestive tract.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's aid digestion after Nature's own order, when taken as directed. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—at any drugstore—only 25¢. You will be glad you did.

MOST CITIES TO CHANGE TO FAST TIME IN APRIL

Circleville Councilmen To Consider Ordinance At Session Tonight

APPROVAL IS EXPECTED

Sponsors Hope For Passage Under Emergency Clause At Single Meeting

Most Ohio cities will change their clocks to fast or Eastern War Time during April. In Circleville, the question will not be determined until tonight when City Council takes up consideration of an ordinance intended to return the city to fast time for the Summer months.

The local ordinance will be submitted as an emergency measure, and it probably will be approved at a single meeting instead of the usual procedure of three successive readings.

Washington C. H. is still undecided about its time after the first of April, but Hillsboro, Greenfield and Lynchburg all will change their clocks at midnight on March 31.

The Ohio State Council of Retail Merchants has announced the results of a survey showing most Ohio cities will step up to fast time by May 1.

Already switched from Eastern Standard Time to fast time are Mansfield, on February 20, and Shelby, on February 26.

Scheduled to change April 1 are Mt. Vernon, Nelsonville, Painesville, Portsmouth, Toledo and Zanesville.

To change April 2 are Bellefontaine, Columbus, Fremont, London and Springfield.

April 15: Lisbon.

April 16: Akron, Alliance, Barberton, Cleveland, East Palestine, Kent, Lakewood, Lorain, Salem, Sandusky, Van Wert, Warren and Youngstown.

Cincinnati is also expected to change "some time in April."

Washington C. H. and Hamilton are undecided.

Ashtabula, Bellaire, Conneaut, East Liverpool, Ironton, Martins Ferry, Steubenville and Willard are on Eastern War Time the year around.

Communities planning no change from Eastern Standard Time are Bryan, Wauseon, Urbana and Dayton, where city commissioners decided to bide by "slow time."

Other cities expected to change, but which have set no date, are Canton, Huron, Massillon, Middletown and St. Marys.

ASHVILLE

The Ashville Community Club will hold its annual election of officers Monday, March 27, at 8:00 p. m. Following the business meeting, Ralph W. Jordan, director of the Central Hospital Service, will discuss the "Blue Cross" hospitalization program in Pickaway county. The program committee has also made arrangements for the showing of some interesting films. All members are urged to attend and bring guests.

Ashville—The Ashville-Lockbourne Brotherhood will meet Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the Ashville Lutheran church. Will W. Fischer is chairman of the entertainment committee.

Ashville—Claude Kraft, Charles W. Fortner, Scott Scothern, and Ed Irwin attended the meeting of Philos lodge, K. of P. in Circleville Monday evening.

Ashville—The Ashville inter-class tournament got under way Tuesday afternoon with the following results: Senior Girls, 35; Frosh girls, 18; Sophomore boys, 18; Senior boys, 16; Sophomore girls, 21; Junior girls, 19; 7th and 8th boys, 18; Junior boys, 14. Play will be resumed Thursday evening with a game between the Senior boys and the Junior boys with the winner playing in the consolation game Friday; Junior girls vs. Frosh girls; and the Frosh boys vs. the Sophomore boys. The finals for both boys and girls and the boys' consolation game will be played Friday evening. A small admission charge will be made for the Thursday and Friday games, with the proceeds given to the Red Cross. Come out and enjoy some spirited games and also help a worthy cause.

Ashville—Capt. and Mrs. Julius Kaiserman and son, David, enjoyed a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kaiserman. Capt. Kaiserman left for Washington, D. C. Wednesday where he will receive a new assignment.

Ashville—It is reported that some local people are in the market for a secret auto compartment in which a set of spare keys can be carried safely. Such a device would have enabled some local people to get home at a much earlier hour after the district finals at Westerville last week.

Ashville—A meeting will be held in the Ashville school building Wednesday evening at 8:00 to discuss plans for securing an alfalfa dehydrator and to hear a report of a committee of 10 farmers who went to Van Wert Monday to see one of these machines in operation. All farmers interested in this project are invited to attend the meeting.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

It is a strange fact that, even while Germany continues to fight a barbarous war of conquest on many fronts, there seems to be developing something like a wave of conciliation. Russia, in spite of the immense wrongs imposed on her by the German onslaught, and while still engaged in driving the predatory Germans from her territory, keeps insisting that she is not trying to weaken Germany, but wants to have friendly and cooperative relations when the war is ended. Similar statements have been made by important and supposedly responsible men in Britain and the United States.

It is hard to reconcile such an attitude with the devastation and death that the Germans have wrought in this war, and in previous wars, and which they may be expected to wreak again on peaceful nations in future wars, if they are left in comparative power and honor at the close of the present conflict.

The aims of the German leaders and the docility of their people leave no reason to doubt that the evil aim of world conquest still exists in Germany. It will rise again and again to plague peaceful nations if it is not crushed now and prevented from renewing Germany's military and economic strength.

Instead of being left free, and able to bide her time and expand anew and prepare another great war of conquest, is it not essential that Germany should be deprived of offensive power and held within geographical and economic limits making impossible any future outbreaks of predatory war?

FUTURE BUSINESS

COMMERCIAL and industrial competition will doubtless be keener after this war. It will have to be, in the great effort to make up war's losses and delays, to branch out in new ways and create new methods and markets and produce new lines of merchandise. Business of all kinds will have to be up on its toes instead of sticking contentedly in old ruts. There must be more profits to make up for war-time losses and diversions.

The challenge, however, should be fruitful. Having demonstrated that we can out-produce the world in war requirements, it will be natural to turn in a big way to new lines of peaceful conquest.

We may have to reconcile ourselves to the fact that this new progress is likely to be less individual and more collective, intensifying a trend that has been visible for at least two generations. Men will probably group themselves together increasingly to accomplish the big things in sight. Special encouragement may be needed to preserve old-fashioned individualism.

WASHINGTON—Among the unhappiest, most disillusioned men in the country today are the thousands of civilian pilot instructors who have built up the great army of U. S. pilots, have seen thousands of their students commissioned, and who are now discharged without any military standing whatever. Having passed up the opportunity for commissions for themselves, these men are now eligible to be drafted as privates in the walking army.

They are responsible for the success of the training program of C. A. A.-W. T. S. (Civil Aeronautics Administration War Training Service). Originally they numbered 14,900 instructors. At first, they worked without pay, in a forty-weeks training program, until CAA fought to get them army pay of $50 a month.

At the turn of the year, when they had been scaled down to about 5,000 instructors, the whole program was abandoned by order of the War department. This meant that the men were thrown back to draft status.

Later, the army said they could apply for commissions in the Air Transport Command—if they could qualify. This was like saying, "You can join the Four Hundred, but you live on the wrong side of the street."

Actually, the Transport Command already has pilots sitting around for as long as five weeks at a time without getting into the air. There's not a chance that the discharged instructors will be taken on by ATC.

The feminine angle makes it worse. These instructors see the women pilots (WASPS) getting more flying opportunity than men. Explanation is that WASP Chief Jacqueline Cochran uses her inside track in favor of her feminine flyers.

Meanwhile, the army has so many pilots that it is making instructors out of men trained as combat pilots—in the face of a surplus of instructors. Apparently the Air Forces have more combat pilots than they can use, even in this global air war.

The civilian instructors—with far more flying time than their students—feel that they should have been allowed to apply for commissions. As it is, however, they are thrown out of work, to start their military service all over again—on the ground.

What further aroused Muley Bob's ire was that he was unable to find out who leaked the story.

DIET AND HEALTH

Diet of Americans Rich In Vitamins

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

GENERAL Pershing once said to some young officers: "If the landscape does not agree with the map you have drawn of it, it is possible the landscape may be right."

I feel like saying that to the vitamin Jeremiahs when they cry, "The diet of the American people is sadly deficient in vitamins."

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

What is to become of us? The fact is the diet of the American people was never so full of vitamins in the whole course of its history. Compared to the diet of our fathers—salt food, meat and potatoes, preserves, no fresh fruits or vegetables all winter except the apple barrel in the cellar—our tables groan with vitamins. And with their diet our fathers had enough energy to level the mountains and make the prairies bloom, and establish education, justice and taxes for a mighty empire.

"The diet of the worker in the Boogum Factory is sadly lacking in Vitamin B and D," say the vitamin experts and then conclude the workers must be below par. Yes, but nobody takes the trouble of checking by looking at the workers who were bright eyed and healthy and in one year had accomplished war production that the government didn't expect for two.

Vitamins In Food

The writers in the medical magazines copy this stuff from each other by the ream without ever taking the trouble to analyze it. If I wanted to copy it and make a journalistic scare-head I could fill this column to overflowing with warnings that would frighten the pants and slacks off my readers.

"Isn't it too bad about Miss So-and-So. She has to take vitamins that cost four dollars a box and she is so poor." Who told her to take the vitamins—a doctor? Oh! no, she just thought she needed them. All right, why doesn't she eat an orange, a carrot, some spinach, a cereal and take a walk in the sunshine and get her vitamins for about 20 cents. She also ought to have an average amount of fat in her diet. Normally humans absorb 70 per cent of the carotene in raw carrots or cooked spinach, furnishing them with vitamin A, but this drops to 50 per cent if there is no fat in the diet.

Vitamins Made In Body

We are told as one of the advances of 1943 that continued studies of the vitamins show that the one most lacking in American diets is thiamine, part of the Vitamin B complex. And on the heels of this discovery is another one that demonstrates that thiamine is developed in the bowels by the action of intestinal bacteria. And most of the biotin we use is developed in the same way: biotin being a part of the Vitamin B complex, named biotin because it is absolutely essential to the activator of life. So we know that two of the four major vitamins—B and D—are formed by the body itself: possibly A is, and it is pretty hard to get away from Vitamin C if you are not a food faddist and eat anything at all except candy and soda crackers.

We are furnished by the researchers with a chart which shows how long it takes for deficiencies in diet elements to show up. Water deficiency, this profound work proves, shows up in a few hours. Vitamin B deficiency in several weeks. Vitamin C and Vitamin A deficiencies several weeks or months respectively. And in the meantime I suppose the prospective victim might just possibly eat an orange, or a baked potato or some butter and save off the deficiency for a few more weeks!

"Mary Shade, 'skilled setter of the saw carriage,' is only one of the women-in-industry group that Washington gazes on in awe. Incidentally, Mary Shade postponed her wedding in order to make the trip.

There's also Miss Cora Lee Clounts, 'welding queen' of the Kaiser shipyards at Richmond, Cal. Likewise Mrs. Edna Slocum, 'welding queen' of Moore Drydock shipyards at Oakland, Cal.

Miss Lee is just 20 years old. She is a cute little number with big eyes and a big smile but she's shy. Never been on a train before this trip. She wouldn't have had the courage to come east if Mrs. Slocum, the other welding queen, hadn't been coming, too.

Mrs. Slocum is all of 30 years old. She has two children. The two queens were in a welding contest and it was planned that the employees of the shipyard of the losing queen should give 1,000 points of blood to the Red Cross. Edna Slocum won. Her shipyard promptly gave pint for pint with the losers. So the Red Cross got a double supply of plasma.

There is a grandmother in the Washington delegation of women in industry—Mrs. Isabel Patry. Gramma Patry makes valves in a Connecticut war plant. She was the first president and still is president of the War Workers Grandmothers club. Mrs. Patry doesn't regard her work and her age as incompatible. There is a great-grandmother in the club.

Look out for Miss Anna Weihe, who makes parachutes in a Columbus aeronautical plant. Anna was voted 'ideal worker' in a contest sponsored by the labor management committee. I'm sort of disappointed that Miss Ada Moultrie, who is a super-duper woman. She's the mother of 13 children. Does her own housework, milks three cows every day, besides doing a full day's work at the mill.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kennedy of Newark is somebody to stare at. She makes electrical equipment for fighter planes. She went to work because her husband is in a war plant, her daughter in a war plant, one son is an ensign in the Navy and one an officer in the Coast Guard. There wasn't anything left for her to do at home.

Pioneer women all these, and hundreds of thousands like them who are tending their jobs with good spirit and hard labor. The sort of work these women do isn't as gay as I've made it sound. It's hard and dangerous and sometimes it's dull. Yet all these women, these hundreds of thousands, have turned to the task as cheerfully as if they had been accustomed to nothing else.

STARS SAY—

For Wednesday, March 15

A PARTICULARLY exciting, interesting and eventful day is read from astral influences, with the promise of a sudden and quite unforeseen opening for an important advancement, favor or other cherished objective, probably calling for travel, change, new contracts or interests under highly pleasant and profitable circumstances. Unusual talents or ingenuity may be the mainspring of this show of interest from those in influential places. But it might be that an over zealous or extravagant forcing of issues might hinder, or unguarded emotional behavior have similar results. Be restrained and also safeguard funds.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for an unforeseen and dramatic opportunity to achieve their noble aims or ambitions, probably due to some exceptional creative talent or skill coming to the attention of those in influential positions who may be disposed to promote or finance such effort. Honors, favors or preferment may be sought with confidence, but with modesty and finesse rather than force or aggressiveness. The social, or sentimental factors are considerable, but should be under due restraints, lest there be detrimental.

A Model is Murdered ~ BABS LEE

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

"While you're checking up," Argus continued, "try to do it so they don't get suspicious."

"Now you're telling me how to conduct my investigation! Maybe I ought to give you my badge, too," Argus ignored the inspector's irritation.

"I know that Bill Carstairs phoned Syria around 11:30 on Monday night, but I should also like to know whether he reached her."

"What's the phone got to do with it? How can I ask questions if I don't know why I'm asking them?" Argus explained in detail about the machine he had found. "And mistaken a phone call played an important part in this murder. I'd also like to know if any one placed an order with any theatrical company for that beard."

"Anything else?" Grange asked. "What did you find out yesterday afternoon about the murder of Cynthia Lane?"

"I talked to the bellboy who delivered that message to Flagg. He claims that a woman called him and gave him the message. But he said that her voice was peculiar and he guessed that she had been crying. So far I haven't been able to discover whether any one saw Miss Lane telephoning. She didn't use the phone in her room."

"And Dorry Carstairs?"

"We had to let her go. As for that husband of hers, we haven't been able to locate him yet. He hasn't been home since Monday night."

"Just keep trying all the bars," Argus suggested, "and you'll unearth him. How about his old man?" Grange chuckled. "That's a hot one," he said. "Remember my telling you about that robe we found in Syria's apartment? Well, we traced it to Carstairs, Senior. When we tried to question him he practically had us thrown out of his office. But we'll get him yet."

"Where was he yesterday, when Miss Lane was shot?"

"In an office of a business friend. The secretary vouched for him. Been any attempts on your life yet, Steele? I pulled that mythical letter tag on everybody."

"None," said Argus. "The murderer must've known that Cynthia never wrote that letter. How about Sturgis?"

"He was on his way to the bar to get a drink. So far we haven't been able to break down his alibi." Grange sighed. "This red-beard business puts a new complexion on the whole thing."

Grange stopped the car in front of a somber looking building that took up half a block on Fifth Avenue—the aristocratic Whitman Club. "This is it," he said, getting out. "It's always been a mystery to me why men want to coop themselves up in a place like this when there are so many nice places to go," Argus said.

"They walked up a flight of steep stone steps."

"You'd think some of the old guys that come here would break their necks getting in and out of the place," Grange said. "I've never seen a man under seventy come out of here."

A polite attendant met them just inside the hall. "Guests of whom?" he asked.

"The city," said Grange, flashing his badge. "Police."

The attendant looked horrified. "You must have the wrong place," he said. "Nothing ever happens here."

Argus looked past him into a large room. Several old men were dozing over their papers.

"I can believe it," Grange said. "We want to see your list of members."

"Living?" the attendant asked. "You have some, I presume," Argus smiled.

The man looked at him with cool regard. "Certainly, sir. This way please." He led them to a desk at one end of the long hall and spoke to a man standing behind it. "Mr. Higgins will get you the membership list."

Higgins produced a small green book and handed it to Grange. There were about two hundred names listed in small type. Argus watched over his shoulder. When they came to C. Grange's moving finger stopped.

"Ah," he said. "William Carstairs, Sr., William Carstairs, Jr., Grange turned to the man behind the desk. "I'd like to keep this." The man nodded.

"Was Mr. Carstairs, Sr., in this club on Monday night?" Argus asked Higgins who beckoned the attendant and repeated the question. "Why, yes, sir. Mr. Carstairs was here until about 11:30. I remember I helped him on with his coat when he left."

"What time did he come in?" Grange inquired.

"Around seven, sir."

"Incidentally," said Argus, "did he make any phone calls?"

"Just a minute, sir, and I'll find out." He returned in a few minutes with several slips. "He put in two calls for the same number, but apparently the line was busy. The operator's written: Keep Trying."

"I'll just copy the number and the time," said Argus. The number was EL-2-1296 and the time of the two calls, ten and eleven nine. He recognized the number as Syria's.

"How about young Carstairs?" Grange asked.

"Mr. Carstairs, Jr., has never been in the club to my knowledge," the attendant replied. His look of distaste implied that young Carstairs was not the sort of member the Whitman Club encouraged.

"Where did Mr. Carstairs go when he left here?"

"I'm sure I don't know, sir."

"What do you make of it?" Grange asked when they were outside the club. "Think Martinelli knows Carstairs? I had heard that the old boy is trying to get into politics. Of course Dancer might have just picked up those matches from one of his customers in his club, just as he said."

"Of course," said Argus.

"Or some big shot, Carstairs maybe, hired Dancer to bump off Syria and then Cynthia Lane. I'm going to have a further talk with him."

"Have you found out yet whom Syria was visiting in New Jersey?"

"No. We've circulated her picture around plenty. The local newspaper boys have been cooperative." He smiled ruefully. "But so far all we've netted has been three phone calls from frantic housewives each swearing that Syria's the husky their husbands ran off with."

"And Cynthia Lane? What about her past?"

"Apparently she wasn't a top model, so her money (and she had a little) must've come from some other source. The only serious boy friend could dig out of her past was a Russian scientist, who's now north near the pole, living on an iceberg and can't be located before the next thaw. She has no family."

"I'm sure she was shot because she knew too much," Argus asserted. He took out the picture of Cynthia he had been carrying under his arm and handed it to Grange. "I wish you'd inquire around Syria's building and ask the elevator men if they saw Miss Lane at any time on Monday, and if she went to Syria's penthouse."

"Sure," said Grange, good-humoredly. "We aim to please. But why?"

Argus told him about the paint on Cynthia's minx coat and also in Syria's hallway.

Later at the Penguin Club, Argus had just returned to the bar when he heard a voice say: "Hello, Mr. Steele." He turned. "Remember me? I'm Donna Grey. I had my picture taken around Syria's office in Mr. Flagg's office."

"Oh," said Argus. "Of course. Will you have a drink?"

"I'm waiting for some one, but—yes, I guess I will have one." She was blonde, and had wide green eyes and a small, rosy mouth. "Honestly, we've all been so upset about what happened to Syria and Cynthia."

Donna lowered her eyes so that Argus could see the sweep of her long lashes. "Syria had just gotten her movie contract—and then to get shot—"

Argus had ordered drinks. "Yes, it does seem too bad."

"You know," chattered Donna, "Mr. Flagg didn't get Syria her movie contract and she wasn't going to pay him any commission. They had a fuss about it." She noticed Argus' brow contract. "Oh dear, maybe I shouldn't tell things like that. You being a detective and all."

"You couldn't have picked a more sympathetic listener, my dear," said Argus. The bartender set down the drinks. Donna picked hers up and sipped it, at the same time looking deeply into the detective's eyes.

Just at that instant a familiar voice said: "Well, if it isn't Sherlock Holmes and his grandmother." Ellen was laughing at him from under a huge brown hat.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

IT is a strange fact that, even while Germany continues to fight a barbarous war of conquest on many fronts, there seems to be developing something like a wave of conciliation. Russia, in spite of the immense wrongs imposed on her by the German onslaught, and while still engaged in driving the predatory Germans from her territory, keeps insisting that she is not trying to weaken Germany, but wants to have friendly and cooperative relations when the war is ended. Similar statements have been made by important and supposedly responsible men in Britain and the United States.

It is hard to reconcile such an attitude with the devastation and death that the Germans have wrought in this war, and in previous wars, and which they may be expected to wreak again on peaceful nations in future wars, if they are left in comparative power and honor at the close of the present conflict.

The aims of the German leaders and the docility of their people leave no reason to doubt that the evil aim of world conquest still exists in Germany. It will rise again and again to plague peaceful nations if it is not crushed now and prevented from renewing Germany's military and economic strength.

Instead of being left free, and able to bide her time and expand anew and prepare another great war of conquest, is it not essential that Germany should be deprived of offensive power and held within geographical and economic limits making impossible any future outbreaks of predatory war?

FUTURE BUSINESS

COMMERCIAL and industrial competition will doubtless be keener after this war. It will have to be, in the great effort to make up war's losses and delays, to branch out in new ways and create new methods and markets and produce new lines of merchandise. Business of all kinds will have to be up on its toes instead of sticking contentedly in old ruts. There must be more profits to make up for war-time losses and diversions.

The challenge, however, should be fruitful. Having demonstrated that we can out-produce the world in war requirements, it will be natural to turn in a big way to new lines of peaceful conquest.

We may have to reconcile ourselves to the fact that this new progress is likely to be less individual and more collective, intensifying a trend that has been visible for at least two generations. Men will probably group themselves together increasingly to accomplish the big things in sight. Special encouragement may be needed to preserve old-fashioned individualism.

WASHINGTON—Ever so often Washington puts on a show that makes me shiver with apprehension. No, I'm not talking about Senate battles, nor White House orders, nor even welcomes to royal guests.

This time I'm speaking of the coming of the lady welders and others of their stout-hearted, strong-armed breed. A dozen or so of this new kind of "New Woman" are on view for a week in the better clubs and government auditoriums.

If you want to learn about women of the future go have a look at them. You, too, will shiver slightly, with, "What IS this world coming to?" thoughts. Likewise with pride that women, lovely women, have shown themselves so smart and so willing in this national win-the-war job.

Are these 1944 New Women, grim, horny-handed females? Certainly not. One of them, Miss Mary Shade, a slim, graceful thing, was the subject for a prize-winning magazine cover. Her photograph, in slacks, heavy boots and safety cap as she worked in a lumber plant, operating a fast mechanism which first holds a log in its talons and then guides it through a great saw, decorated the outside of "The Timberman" and inspired the Museum of Modern Art to make a special award to the logging journal.

The hands with which Mary Shade guided "the fast mechanism" were covered with smart gauntlets. I'll bet you a Lenten resolution against a summer vacation plan that the fingers under the gauntlets were manicured in the newest shade of red enamel. And that the hair under the visored safety cap was freshly shampooed and waved.

The "New Woman" of World War II works that way. The manner in which she combines strength of will and body with Grade A femininity is enough, as I said at the beginning, to frighten every wonder over "What will we do with women after the war?"

Grange stopped the car in front of a somber looking building that took up half a block on Fifth Avenue—the aristocratic Whitman Club.

"This is it," he said, getting out. "Looks like the morgue."

It's always been a mystery to me why men want to coop themselves up in a place like this when there are so many nice places to go," Argus said.

A Model is Murdered ~ BABS LEE

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

"While you're checking up," Argus continued, "try to do it so they don't get suspicious."

"Now you're telling me how to conduct my investigations! Maybe I ought to give you my badge, too," Argus ignored the Inspector's irritation.

"I know that Bill Carstairs phoned Syria around 11:30 on Monday night, but I should also like to know whether he reached her."

"What's the phone got to do with it? How can I ask questions if I don't know why I'm asking them?" Argus explained in detail about the machine he had found. "And so," he said, "unless I'm very much mistaken a phone call played an important part in this murder. I'd also like to know if any one placed an order with any theatrical company for that beard."

"Anything else?" Grange asked. "What did you find out yesterday afternoon about the murder of Cynthia Lane?"

"I talked to the bellboy who delivered that message to Flagg. He claims that a woman called him and gave him the message. But he said that her voice was peculiar and he guessed that she had been crying. So far I haven't been able to discover whether any one saw Miss Lane telephoning. She didn't use the phone in her room."

"We had to let her go. As for that husband of hers, we haven't been able to locate him yet. He hasn't been home since Monday night."

"Just keep trying all the bars," Argus suggested, "and you'll unearth him. How about his old man?" Grange chuckled. "That's a hot one," he said. "Remember my telling you about that robe we found in Syria's apartment? Well, we traced it to Carstairs, Senior. When we tried to question him he practically had us thrown out of his office. But we'll get him yet."

"Where was he yesterday, when Miss Lane was shot?"

"In an office of a business friend. The secretary vouched for him. Been any attempts on your life yet, Steele? I pulled that mythical letter gag on everybody."

"None," said Argus. "The murderer must've known that Cynthia never wrote that letter. How about Sturgis?"

"He was on his way to the bar to get a drink. So far we haven't been able to break down his alibi." Grange sighed. "This red-beard business puts a new complexion on the whole thing."

Grange stopped the car in front of a somber looking building that took up half a block on Fifth Avenue—the aristocratic Whitman Club.

"This is it," he said, getting out. "Looks like the morgue."

"You'd think some of the old guys that come here would break their necks getting in and out of the place," Grange said. "I've never seen a man under seventy come out of here."

A polite attendant met them just inside the hall. "Guests of whom?" he asked.

"The city," said Grange, flashing his badge. "Police!"

The attendant looked horrified. "You must have the wrong place," he said. "Nothing ever happens here."

Argus looked past him into a large room. Several old men were dozing over their papers.

"I can believe it," Grange said. "We want to see your list of members."

"Living?" the attendant asked. "You have some, I presume," Argus smiled.

The man looked at him with cool regard. "Certainly, sir. This way please." He led them to a desk at one end of the long hall and spoke to a man standing behind it. "Mr. Higgins will get you the membership list."

Higgins produced a small green book and handed it to Grange. There were about two hundred names listed in small type. Argus watched over his shoulder. When they came to C. Grange's moving finger stopped.

"Ah," he said. "William Carstairs, Sr., William Carstairs, Jr., Grange turned to the man behind the desk. "I'd like to keep this." The man nodded.

"Was Mr. Carstairs, Sr., in this club on Monday night?" Argus asked Higgins who, beckoned the attendant and repeated the question.

"Why, yes, sir. Mr. Carstairs was here until about 11:30. I remember I helped him on with his coat when he left."

"What time did he come in?" Grange inquired.

"Around seven, sir."

"Incidentally," said Argus, "did he make any phone calls?"

"Just a minute, sir, and I'll find out." He returned in a few minutes with several slips. "He put in two calls for the same number, but apparently the line was busy. The operator's written: Keep Trying."

"I'll just copy the number and the time," said Argus. The number was EL-2-1296 and the time of the two calls, ten and eleven nine. He recognized the number as Syria's.

"How about young Carstairs?" Grange asked.

"Mr. Carstairs, Jr., has never been in the club to my knowledge," the attendant replied. His look of distaste implied that young Carstairs was not the sort of member the Whitman Club encouraged.

"Where did Mr. Carstairs go when he left here?"

"I'm sure I don't know, sir."

"What do you make of it?" Grange asked when they were outside the club. "Think Martinielli knows Carstairs? I had heard that the old boy is trying to get into politics. Of course Dasher might have just picked up those matches from one of his customers in his club, just as he said."

"Of course," said Argus.

Later at the Penguin Club, Argus had just returned to the bar when he heard a voice say: "Hello, Mr. Steele." He turned. "Remember me? I'm Donna Grey. I had my picture taken with you the other day in Mr. Flagg's office."

"Oh," said Argus. "Of course. Will you have a drink?"

"I'm waiting for some one, but—yes, I guess I will have one." She was blonde, and had wide green eyes and a small, rosy mouth. "Honestly, we've all been so upset about what happened to Syria and Cynthia."

Donna lowered her eyes so that Argus could see the sweep of her long lashes. "Syria had just gotten her movie contract—and then he got shot."

Argus had ordered drinks. "Yes, it does seem too bad."

"You know," chattered Donna, "Mr. Flagg didn't get Syria her movie contract and she wasn't going to pay him any commission. They had a fuss about it." She noticed Argus' brow contract. "Oh dear, maybe I shouldn't tell things like that. You being a detective and all."

"You couldn't have picked a more sympathetic listener, my dear," said Argus. The bartender set down the drinks. Donna picked hers up and sipped it, at the same time looking deeply into the detective's eyes.

Just at that instant a familiar voice said: "Well, if it isn't Sherlock Holmes and his grandchild!" Ellen was laughing at him from under a huge brown hat.

Contribution To
Red Cross

Circleville chapter No. 90, Order of the Eastern Star, voted to give $15 to the Red Cross War Fund Drive at the regular meeting Tuesday at the Masonic temple. Fifty-five members and visitors attended the splendid session, several candidates being initiated.

Mrs. George Valentine, worthy matron, and Carl D. Bennett, worthy patron, were in the chairs for the formal chapter work.

During the social hour in the Red room, lunch was served from a lace-covered table centered with a lovely arrangement of green and white carnations. Green candles burned on the table, continuing the St. Patrick's Day scheme of decorations. Included in the visitors were chapter members from Williamsport, Waverly, Amanda, Lithopolis and New Holland.

The hospitality committee for the evening included Mrs. Edward Helwegen, Mrs. Harold Ullom, Mrs. Earl Hilyard, Mrs. O. J. Towers, Mrs. Emmett Barnhart, Mrs. Bryan Custer, Mrs. Will Fitzpatrick and Mrs. George Valentine.

Star Grange
Fairfield grange of Madison county was in charge of initiation work for 12 candidates Tuesday at the meeting of Star Grange in Monroe township school auditorium. Third and fourth degrees were conferred. Seventy-two grangers, 23 juveniles and 44 visitors were present for the splendid meeting. There were 37 present from Fairfield grange and other visitors were members of Logan Elm and Washington granges.

Turney Glick, county deputy, and Mrs. Glick, county juvenile matron, were present and gave talks.

During the business hour in charge of C. M. Reid, worthy master, the grange voted to give $20 to the Red Cross War Fund Drive.

Star grange was invited to visit Fairfield grange April 13 to put on the first and second degrees for the class of candidates.

During the pleasant social hour that closed the meeting, a dessert course was served.

Morris C. E.
Morris Christian Endeavor society held its March session Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson, Saltcreek township, with 69 present for the evening. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Leist and son, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Leist and son, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Leist, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Aleridge, and family, Mrs. V. D. Kerns and children, Mrs. Joseph Anderson, and the Misses Anna, Eleanor, Dorothy and Margie Dresbach.

Raymond Welch, president, was in the chair and opened the meeting with group singing, prayer by Oakley Leist, scripture lesson from Matthew 6 with the Rev. F. E. Dunn in charge of the discussion. Mrs. Oakley Leist and Mrs. Arthur Leist were heard in a duet; vocal solo and guitar solo, Mrs. Marvin Leist; duet, the Strawser sisters; report of secretary, Mrs. Russell England. The offering for the evening amounted to $10. A selection by the men's quartet and prayer by the Rev. Mr. Dunn closed the session.

Contests in charge of Mrs. Roy Strawser interested the group during the social hour. Lunch was served.

The April meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell England, near Kingtown.

Our Boys Need Musical Instruments on the Battlefield and in Camp

You can help send them this easy way:
That forgotten musical instrument in your storeroom is wanted! Some boy in uniform, halfway round the world, is asking for it now. Harmonicas, accordions, ocarinas, flutes, bazookas. In cooperation with the United States Government we have worked out a plan to speed these gifts on to their destinations without trouble or expense to you. All you have to do is deliver them to your neighborhood Coca-Cola dealer. We'll do the rest. Here's how it works:

1 You take your instrument to your nearest Coca-Cola dealer.
2 The Coca-Cola truck picks it up and sends it to the U. S. Government.
3 They send it to the boys in camp and overseas.
4 Your gift brings some lonely soldier joy. Thank you.

Don't delay. Dig out all your old musical instruments today and start them on their journeys to our homesick fighting men.

Red Cross

Circleville chapter No. 90, Order of the Eastern Star, voted to give $15 to the Red Cross War Fund Drive at the regular meeting Tuesday in the Masonic temple. Fifty-five members and visitors attended the splendid session, several candidates being initiated.

Mrs. George Valentine, worthy matron, and Carl D. Bennett, worthy patron, were in the chairs for the formal chapter work.

During the social hour in the Red room, lunch was served from a lace-covered table centered with a lovely arrangement of green and white carnations. Green candles burned on the table, continuing the St. Patrick's Day scheme of decorations. Included in the visitors were chapter members from Williamsport, Waverly, Amanda, Lithopolis and New Holland.

The hospitality committee for the evening included Mrs. Edward Helwagen, Mrs. Harold Ullom, Mrs. Earl Hilyard, Mrs. O. J. Towers, Mrs. Emmett Barnhart, Mrs. Bryan Custer, Mrs. Will Fitzpatrick and Mrs. George Valentine.

Star Grange
Fairfield grange of Madison county was in charge of initiatory work for 12 candidates Tuesday at the meeting of Star grange in Monroe township school auditorium. Third and fourth degrees were conferred. Seventy-two grangers, 23 juveniles and 44 visitors were present for the splendid meeting. There were 37 present from Fairfield grange and other visitors were members of Logan Elm and Washington granges.

Turney Glick, county deputy, and Mrs. Glick, county juvenile matron, were present and gave talks.

During the business hour in charge of C. M. Reid, worthy master, the grange voted to give $20 to the Red Cross War Fund Drive.

Star grange was invited to visit Fairfield grange April 13 to put on the first and second degrees for the class of candidates.

During the pleasant social hour that closed the meeting, a dessert course was served.

Morris C. E.
Morris Christian Endeavor society held its March session Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson, Salt Creek township, with 69 present for the evening. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Leist and son, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Leist and son, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Leist, and family, Mrs. V. D. Kerns and children, Mrs. Joseph Anderson, and the Misses Anna, Eleanor, Dorothy and Margie Dresbach.

Raymond Welsh, president, was in the chair and opened the meeting with group singing, prayer by Oakley Leist, scripture lesson from Matthew 6 with the Rev. F. E. Dunn in charge of the discussion. Mrs. Oakley Leist and Mrs. Arthur Leist were heard in a duet; vocal solo and guitar solo, Mrs. Marvin Leist; duet, the Strawser sisters; report of secretary, Mrs. Russell England. The offering for the evening amounted to $10. A selection by the men's quartet and prayer by the Rev. Mr. Dunn closed the session.

Contests in charge of Mrs. Roy Strawser interested the group during the social hour. Lunch was served.

The April meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell England, near Kingston.

Otterbein Guild
Otterbein Guild of the United Brethren church met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Robert Dick, East Franklin street. During the business hour, Miss Leah Jean Mason was named president of the guild for the coming year. Her staff of officers will include Mrs. Herschel Hinton, vice president; Miss Catherine Turner, secretary; Miss Marguerite Martin, treasurer; Mrs. J. R. Downs, secretary of literature; Miss Jane Grubbs, secretary of stewardship; Miss Dolores Hawkes, secretary of thanksgiving; collectors, Mrs. Robert Dick and Miss Mary Ellen Kirkpatrick.

Mrs. John Kerns was chosen as guild counselor, a position held by Mrs. J. R. Kirkpatrick for the last 15 years. Mrs. Kirkpatrick requested her release because of ill health. Miss Mary Ann Woodward and Miss Norma Dawson were received as new members.

Miss Polly Jane Kerns was program leader for the evening. The scripture lesson was read by Miss Rita Jean Martin and the chapter of the study book, by Miss Lucille Kirkwood. A selected article written by Mr. Anthony and telling of his work in North Africa, was read by Mrs. Herschel Hinton. Miss Kirkpatrick presented a reading, "Dolls and Cornstalks." Mrs. Dick, assisted by Miss Hawkes, served a delightful lunch.

That forgotten musical instrument in your storehouse is wanted! Some boy in uniform, halfway 'round the world, is asking for it now. Harmonicas, accordions, ocarinas, flutes, bazookas. In cooperation with the United States Government we have worked out a plan to speed these gifts on to their destinations without trouble or expense to you. All you have to do is deliver them to your neighborhood Coca-Cola dealer. We'll do the rest. Here's how it works:

- 1 You take your instrument to your nearest Coca-Cola dealer.
- 2 The Coca-Cola truck picks it up and sends it to the U. S. Government.
- 3 They send it to the boys in camp and overseas.
- 4 Your gift brings some lonely soldier joy. Thank you.

Don't delay. Dig out all your old musical instruments today and start them on their journeys to our homesick fighting men.

ORTIZ RETAINS BANTAM CROWN

Champ Wins Decision Over Aguilar At Madison Square Garden

LOS ANGELES, March 15—Manuel Ortiz still wore his bantam weight crown today. He defended his title for the ninth time in winning a 15-round decision over Mexico's Ernesto Aguilar last night at Olympic auditorium.

The unorthodox stance employed by Aguilar, Mexican bantam-weight champ, gave Ortiz plenty of trouble all through the bout. Aguilar won the first four rounds before the champ was able to figure out his opponent's style and begin piling up his victory margin. After the fourth round Ortiz began drawing the challenger into clinches, where he pounded away at Aguilar's stomach. Aguilar drove the Washington, Pa., battler into his own corner in the eighth and showed unusual strength in keeping the champ backed against the ropes.

HUNTING LAWS TO BE AIDED BY COUNTY GROUP

A meeting to consider recommendations for changes in the present hunting regulations in Ohio will be held by the Pickaway County Conservation Committee at the Elks Home tonight at 8:00. Game Protector Clarence Francis stated that meetings of this type are being held throughout the state in advance of the state-wide public hearing, required by law, which will be held in Columbus on June 13.

He said that the Conservation Commissioner Don Waters has urged all field men of the Division of Conservation and Natural Resources and officials of the county conservation committees to seek the advice of the officers and members of all sportsmen's groups, farm organizations and individuals interested in the subject. Accordingly Chairman Roy Beatty urged these organizations and all interested persons to participate in the meeting.

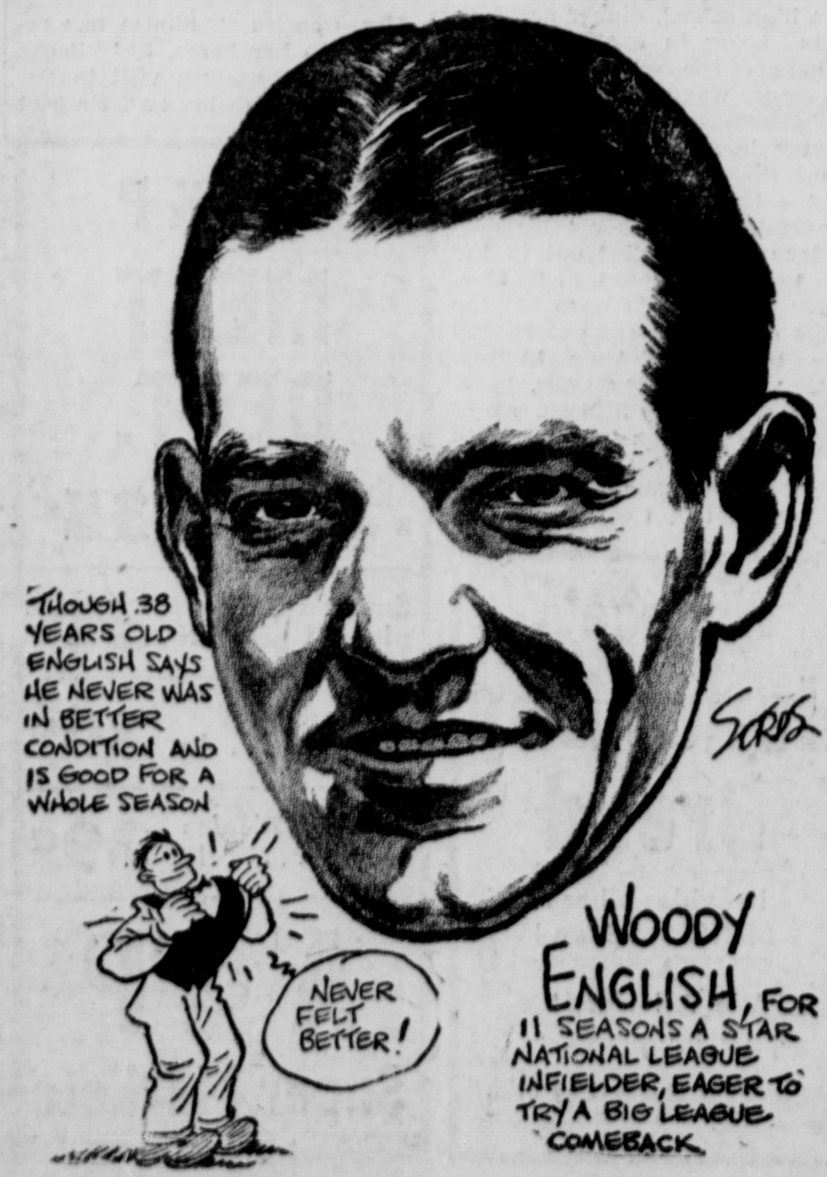

There will be an election of officers, as well as a sportsman and a farmer representative selected to represent Pickaway County at the district meeting.

Cubs Manager Believes His Players Work Harder In French Lick

CHICAGO, March 15—Manager Jim Wilson of the Chicago Cubs declared today that his experiences at French Lick, Ind., last year have convinced him that ballplayers can work harder in a northern climate than in the south, where big league clubs trained before the war.

The Cubs will start Spring training operations at French Lick again next Monday. Wilson promised a more vigorous working schedule than last season because of a shorter training season.

The Chicago White Sox leave tomorrow for French Lick. The contract fold of the Sox was expanded today with the signing of Catcher Mike Tresh, the team's No. 1 backstop, and Pitcher Edmund Lopat, promising rookie southpaw.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 15—Elmer Riddle, one of the National League's best pitchers, was among the absentees in the Cincinnati Reds training camp today. Elmer notified Manager Bill McKechnie he had asked his Columbus, Ga., draft board for a pre-induction physical examination as soon as possible.

The pitcher said he thought he would be permitted to take the examination within a few days. He won 21 games for the Reds last season.

Another absentee was infielder Steve Mesmer who has failed to report because of salary differences with the management. The Reds are training at Indiana university.

SPRING SPORTS PROGRAM TAKING SHAPE IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, March 15—Although Ohio's current high school basketball championships continue to hog the sport limelight, the scheme of the state's Spring sports program is rapidly taking shape today.

State Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend announced the schedule for district track, baseball, golf and tennis tournaments. Most of the sectional events are scheduled for the week ending May 20, but a few will start a week earlier. The state championships, Townsend said, will be staged at Ohio State University May 26 and 27.

The commissioner's announcement dispelled fears that the Spring sports program might have to be scrapped because of wartime transportation regulations. For the most part the schedule calls for almost exactly the same program as followed in pre-war years. Townsend expressed only light skepticism that all of the scheduled events would go off as planned. He said, "The Ohio High School Athletic Association reserves the right to discontinue any of these meets should there be insufficient entries."

MONTGOMERY POSTPONES MATCH WITH BEAU JACK

NEW YORK, March 15—Bob Montgomery, who recently regained his lightweight title from Beau Jack, will rest for six to eight weeks, with the comment of the New York State Athletic Commission, thus postponing his March 31 bout with Sammy Angott.

The commission postponed the fight, scheduled at Madison Square Garden, after Montgomery reported that he was not in shape to meet Angott on March 31. The Negro champion was examined by Dr. William Walker at the commission's direction and Montgomery was advised to rest.

As a result, Beau Jack will fight Juan Jurita, who defeated Angott for the National Boxing Association title in an upset on the west coast last week.

READY AND WILLING - By Jack Sords

Carver Answers Article On Baseball Holdouts; Advises Them To Cash In

By Lawton Carver
NEW YORK, March 15—Anything to please the boys in uniform is and must be the motto of civilians.

Their every request should be fulfilled to overflowing and in matters concerning sports we who are connected with sports should pay special heed to their wishes to the end that when the shooting is over and they return home they will be thankful that the sports they cherish did not let them down.

If they want a ballplayer or a prizefighter to turn handsprings down Broadway at high noon for the news reel cameras, that athlete should comply. If they want to see pictures of Joe Baki catching a ball game for the New York Yankees and Bill Dickey fighting Lee Savold, that should be arranged.

We are carrying this to an extreme for the purpose of making it emphatic that no matter what a soldier might ask from sports he should get his wish. After all those guys fighting the war are making it possible for sports to survive.

If by presenting the matter in the foregoing manner we have made it clear that we are for the fighting men all the way down the line, then we can go on with what we started out to say, viz and to wit:

The boys in uniform—or some of them—are a little off base when they suggest that there shouldn't be any such thing as a baseball holdout this season. There should be baseball holdouts this season and every season. Without baseball holdouts the game would degenerate into a nickel and dime thing—from a standpoint of salaries. Club-owners are business men first and human beings later or in the evening and only the screeching and hollering of the holdouts can keep them in line.

The Sporting News, sometimes known as the baseball bible, has a piece in it quoting a service paper from overseas to the effect that the armed forces want baseball to continue "but don't put up with any fancy holdouts. A lot of guys in other uniforms won't like it."

Here is the way I see this thing. Either a baseball player should be in the armed services or he has been rejected or uncalled so far. If the latter be true, then he should be paid all he can get for the coming season, war or no war. The fact that there is a manpower shortage has nothing to do with the situation. It is customary for people—big business people, sports people and everybody—to capitalize on the law of supply and demand.

Why should a ballplayer play for less merely because there is a war on? He should get what he can because (1) A baseball player's career is short at best, (2) The baseball owners are out to make all the money they can, and (3) The player might be in the service himself at any moment.

It occurs to me that a sounder beef from the services could be made against baseball players playing at all. If the major leagues, for instance, were to announce that all the players in the two circuits were going into an airplane factory or a shipyard for the duration instead of playing baseball it would do a lot more for the war effort than the present setup. This would put close to 400 men to work building vital materials until such time as each is called in turn or rejected for the actual fighting. That would be a noteworthy war effort on the part of baseball.

However, as long as they are determined to play the game under any and all circumstances, then by all means let the players cash in.

THERE ARE countless situations in which you must "play the percentage," trying the method which is more likely to succeed than some other course. If it then turns out that the less probable method would have worked, whereas the more hopeful one did not, don't let it upset you. Most especially, don't let it cause you to adopt the unsound method if the same situation confronts you again.

What is the way to play for 4-Hearts on this deal after West leads the diamond J?

West put the weight on South at the outset by taking his spade A and shifting to the heart 6. Seeing the danger of club losers and therefore the necessity of preventing them, South decided to try setting up diamonds for discards instead of finessing against a possible Q-J of clubs held by East. Doing that would necessitate probably three entries to the dummy, which would require a trump guess. If it failed, he then could try the club finesse play.

He put in the heart 10, counting West for the J, and it won. Then came the diamond A, for discard of the club 3, the diamond 6 ruffed by the heart 7, the heart

Draft Board Ordered To Curb Deferment of Men Under 26

KEY WORKERS EXCEPTED BY NEW DIRECTIVE

Comparatively Small Number Of Pickaway Men To Be Affected

INSTRUCTIONS CLARIFIED

Induction Of Fathers May Be Stepped Up By New Policy

Selective service tightened down today on occupational deferment for men under 26 years of age while safeguarding war production against the induction of its key technicians and skilled workers needed to keep munitions moving to the fighting fronts.

While the action will affect a great many Circleville and Pickaway county men, the number is relatively small compared to some counties.

Clarifying earlier instructions to the Pickaway county board, national draft director Lewis B. Hershey said the virtual ban on deferments for men 18 through 21 now is extended to registrants 18 through 25—with exception of irreplaceable personnel.

Crisis Recognized

The selective service chief, recognizing the threatened crisis in war production as result of indiscriminate cancellation of occupational deferments, asserted that local boards are expected to prevent the withdrawal of essential men from the assembly lines.

To this extent, Hershey heeded the appeals of WPC Chairman Donald M. Nelson and WMC Chief Paul V. McNutt who had brought the serious production problem to the attention of President Roosevelt last Monday.

In some degree, the induction of fathers will be stepped up when younger men are deferred and may exceed the original one in ten estimate of selective service.

To Retain Key Men

Hershey's action followed a statement by President Roosevelt that, despite the pressing needs of the army and navy for younger men, key war workers also had to be retained in their jobs. The degree of necessity must be weighed, the President said.

Nelson and McNutt are expected to implement the new instructions to local boards with a program under which key plants will be designated where skilled workers must be deferred. These include high octane gasoline plants, synthetic rubber, landing craft, aircraft, foundries and ball-bearing.

Hershey's order to the Pickaway selective service officials was intended to clarify the President's memorandum of February 26 which directed a review of occupational deferments with particular emphasis on men under 26 in order to fill a 200 thousand man deficiency in the armed forces.

The order stated that "state directors are expected to recommend deferments of individual registrants under 26 years of age without whose services the production requirements of critical-industry cannot be met."

Hershey made it clear however, that other occupational deferments in less critical industries and war supporting jobs would be open to review and such registrants made eligible for induction.

INCOME TAX REFUNDS DUE TO BEGIN SOON

The pleasant part of the complicated "pay-as-you-go" income tax plan has begun to function, it was learned here Wednesday, to offset some of the headaches produced by highly confusing return form with which taxpayers have been wrestling for the last few weeks.

Refunds on payments made by taxpayers on their 1943 earnings are being approved and those lucky citizens of Circleville and Pickaway county who paid the government too much income tax this last year will begin to receive their refund checks soon.

Irish Robert Hannegan swung open the door of his safe the other day, took out a sparkler worth $1,500, put it on his finger. With Celtic superstition, the new Democratic National Chairman intends to wear that ring as a good omen of Democratic success in 1944.

Friends who have seen Hannegan in the last few days have been dazzled by the sparkler, kid him about his opulence. The inside story—as revealed inside the ring—is that the sparkler was given to Hannegan by the Democratic Committee of St. Louis after he had led the local ticket to triumph in 1938. It carries the inscription, "Presented by the Democrats of St. Louis to Bob Hannegan, 1938."

Though the total cost was $1,500, there were many contributors, and the largest ante was only $50.

When Hannegan became Internal Revenue Commissioner, he took the ring off and put it in his safe. But when he took the new job of National Democratic Chairman, he put the sparkler back on his finger for good luck in '44.

Rossiter. His rooms at the Marlyn Apartments were charred and burned. In the Diplomatic Corps, the gossip was that dirty work had taken place because of Argentina's anti-U. S. policy. . . Solution of the mystery: Lt. Rossiter went to sleep smoking, had to be rushed to a hospital, and was kept under an oxygen tent to recover from carbon monoxide poisoning.

PITTSBURGH — Although he spent Christmas floating on a life raft in the South Pacific, Kenneth C. Sherbon, 18-year-old navy radioman, recaptured the Yule spirit. SCHOOL PUPILS RAISE $130 FOR RED CROSS FUND

A series of events at Circleville high school for benefit of the Red Cross War fund already have raised a total of about $130. Additional programs will be conducted the remainder of the week.

The finals in the Stooze basketball tournament will be conducted tonight with the seniors meeting the junior team. In games Monday, the seniors defeated the eighth grade, 48-20, and the freshmen defeated the seventh grade, 32-19. In Tuesday's games the juniors won from the sophomores, 33-28, and the freshmen forfeited to the seniors.

The band gave a concert this afternoon for the grades and will conduct others tomorrow afternoon and night for the high school and the general public.

NEW SHOE COUPON TO BE VALID AFTER MAY 1

The Office of Price Administration disclosed today that another ration stamp, not yet specified, will become valid May 1, for one pair of shoes. Stamp No. 18 in War Ration Book No. 1 will expire on April 30. Airplane Stamp No. 1 in Ration Book 3 will remain valid indefinitely.

The new coupon to be used will be designated shortly before it becomes effective. Airplane Stamp No. 2 probably will be selected as the new shoe coupon.

OPA said no estimate can be made now as to how long it will be before another stamp for shoes can be validated following the one that becomes good on May 1.

NEW POTATO CROP MAY SWAMP MARKET AGAIN

NEW YORK, March 15—Unless the Federal government speeds its plans to move the 138 million bushel carry-over crop of potatoes, the market will be swamped by the new potato crop in three or four weeks, New York dealers warned today.

Some of the dealers insisted that the government plan was stalled and that little is being done to move the carry-over crop for dehydration, for cattle feed, industrial alcohol and other uses.

TRUCK OPERATORS MAY CALL FOR GAS STAMPS

Truck operators, including fleet owners, are asked to call at the War Price and Rationing office for their second quarter allotments any time after Wednesday.

Harry B. Welch, clerk of the board, said rations uncalled for after April 10 will be frozen. The new T-2 truck stamps will be out April 1, but applications should be filed between March 15 and April 10.

CITIZENS URGED TO TURN IN OLD TYPE TIN TUBES

Householders in Circleville and Pickaway county who have saved old collapsible tubes used for toothpaste and shaving cream were urged Wednesday to turn these in to their druggist.

While the requirements that old tubes be presented in exchange for a new tube has been discontinued, it is still important that all the old tubes which contained about 90 percent pure tin be salvaged.

Daniel McClain, chairman of the Pickaway county Salvage Committee, pointed out that the new tubes are not useful for salvage because of their low tin content. However, many householders saved the old type tubes for exchange and if they still have them should submit them at once.

This year, everyone is touched deeply by this war! Those very near and dear to us have left or will soon be leaving to join the armed forces. Our sons, husbands, brothers . . . our sweethearts and friends—are actively engaged in this great struggle. Naturally, we are most concerned with their welfare, and if we could be near them it would be a great relief to us; but since that is impossible, let's give generously to Red Cross . . . still the greatest mother in the world . . . who will be there!

Here are some of the important services that the Red Cross renders:

1. Your American Red Cross collects life-saving blood for plasma which is performing miracles in saving lives.
2. Provides comfort, cheer, and recreation in hospitals throughout the world.
3. Provides surgical dressings.
4. Sends food parcels to Prisoners of War.
5. The Red Cross helps service men solve personal problems.
6. Aids the families of service men and disabled veterans.
7. Operates service clubs overseas.
8. Recruits army and navy nurses.
9. Handles emergency messages for service men and their families.
10. Helps when disaster strikes.

The demands for Red Cross services this year are greater than ever before . . . our county budget is $24,300 . . . one-half more than was raised last year. So, give generously to the boys and girls who are longing to be with us. Give to the American Red Cross who will reach them for you!

OPA said no estimate can be made now as to how long it will be before another stamp for shoes can be validated following the one that becomes good on May 1.

NEW POTATO CROP MAY SWAMP MARKET AGAIN

NEW YORK, March 15—Unless the Federal government speeds its plans to move the 138 million bushel carry-over crop of potatoes, the market will be swamped by the new potato crop in three or four weeks, New York dealers warned today.

Some of the dealers insisted that the government plan was stalled and that little is being done to move the carry-over crop for dehydration, for cattle feed, industrial alcohol and other uses.

TRUCK OPERATORS MAY CALL FOR GAS STAMPS

Truck operators, including fleet owners, are asked to call at the War Price and Rationing office for their second quarter allotments any time after Wednesday.

Harry B. Welch, clerk of the board, said rations uncalled for after April 10 will be frozen. The new T-2 truck stamps will be out April 1, but applications should be filed between March 15 and April 10.

CITIZENS URGED TO TURN IN OLD TYPE TIN TUBES

Householders in Circleville and Pickaway county who have saved old collapsible tubes used for toothpaste and shaving cream were urged Wednesday to turn these in to their druggist.

While the requirements that old tubes be presented in exchange for a new tube has been discontinued, it is still important that all the old tubes which contained about 90 percent pure tin be salvaged.

Daniel McClain, chairman of the Pickaway county Salvage Committee, pointed out that the new tubes are not useful for salvage because of their low tin content. However, many householders saved the old type tubes for exchange and if they still have them should submit them at once.

PICKAWAY COUNTY RED CROSS 1944 WAR FUND---$24,300

Make Your Donation As Big As Your Heart

SEND IN YOUR CHECK, TODAY!

If you cannot be at his side, make it possible for the RED CROSS to be there with him.

This year, everyone is touched deeply by this war! Those very near and dear to us have left or will soon be leaving to join the armed forces. Our sons, husbands, brothers . . . our sweethearts and friends—are actively engaged in this great struggle. Naturally, we are most concerned with their welfare, and if we could be near them it would be a great relief to us; but since that is impossible, let's give generously to Red Cross . . . still the greatest mother in the world . . . who will be there!

Here are some of the important services that the Red Cross renders:

1. Your American Red Cross collects life-saving blood for plasma which is performing miracles in saving lives.
2. Provides comfort, cheer, and recreation in hospitals throughout the world.
3. Provides surgical dressings.
4. Sends food parcels to Prisoners of War.
5. The Red Cross helps service men solve personal problems.
6. Aids the families of service men and disabled veterans.
7. Operates service clubs overseas.
8. Recruits army and navy nurses.
9. Handles emergency messages for service men and their families.
10. Helps when disaster strikes.

The demands for Red Cross services this year are greater than ever before . . . our county budget is $24,300 . . . one-half more than was raised last year. So, give generously to the boys and girls who are longing to be with us. Give to the American Red Cross who will reach them for you!
